

Trisha Oldfield is a mixed media artist, who primarily focuses on collage and acrylic on canvas.

Oldfield's work is sought after for its vibrancy, wit, and inspired play. Over the years, her works have been commissioned by government and corporate clients and purchased by private collectors worldwide. Her pieces adorn a wide variety of spaces, from private homes to the walls at Google Headquarters. In 2021, British VOGUE spotlighted Oldfield in an International Artist feature. Her work has been featured in solo and group exhibitions in Canada and Mexico, and she is currently represented by Galeria de Ida Victoria in San Jose del Cabo, Mexico. Oldfield is set apart for her willingness to push her own creative limits, while delving unapologetically into her own self-expression.

Oldfield's home studio is in Chemainus where she and her family have lived for over 20 years. Trisha is also a graphic designer by trade, a bag designer as well as the new mural restoration artist / curator in Chemainus. You can find more information on her website at www.OldfieldArt.com